

Logan's Giving Fund for Autism

The CMF Kids Program Logan's Giving Fund for Autism helps families access necessary services to improve outcomes for children with autism.

CMF Kids is a resource program of Crotched Mountain Foundation that helps children with autism and other disabilities live, learn, and thrive in the community. To date, Logan's Giving Fund for Autism has provided more than $55,000 in support of families.

Logan's Giving Fund for Autism provides families support by directly paying their child's service provider for services and treatment they would otherwise not be able to afford. Resource awards range from $1,000 to $5,000.

Areas of funding support include but are not limited to out of pocket expenses associated with necessary autism services or treatment such as Applied Behavioral Analysis Therapy overseen by a Board-Certified Behavior Analyst, speech, occupational and music therapy, and social skills groups.

Eligibility

- Families of children with autism ages (2 – 6 years) of age with proof of an autism diagnosis from the primary care provider
- Families of children with autism who are actively enrolled or seeking to enroll with a service provider to receive treatment or services identified above
- While there is not an income level cap, family incomes below $100,000 per year will be reviewed first and given priority

Application Process

Applications are submitted securely online and can be found at cmf.org/cmfkidsautismfund. Applications are received during the two annual giving cycles (Fall/Winter and Spring/Summer). Families selected for a resource award will be notified by CMF Kids via email.
